

Faculty of Science – Open Access Suppression form

Note:

- This form is used when there is a need to prevent your dissertation from being made available online via OpenUCT, for the reasons stated below.
- For more details, see: UCT Open Access policy.
- This form must be completed and uploaded to PeopleSoft in a service request when you give notice of your intention to submit.

The principle that all research results should be freely available governs all research conducted at the University of Cape Town. Therefore, no-one will be allowed to undertake research for the purposes of a Masters, if the results of which may not be published. However, on rare occasions there may be a good reason for a short delay in making the dissertation available to anyone other than the supervisors and examiners. The University of Cape Town will consider giving such a dispensation on application to the Faculty. Good cause must be shown for the suppression of a dissertation. The suppression period, which starts at graduation (confer date), may range from a minimum of six months to a period not exceeding three years.

The Faculty will consider each application (either at a meeting or by Chair's circular) and will make a determination after consultation with the Research Contracts and Intellectual Property Services Office (RCIPS).

If such permission is given, the dissertation will not be added to UCT Library's OpenUCT digital repository. Only at the end of the specified period, the dissertation will be added to UCT Library's OpenUCT digital repository.

Application must be made before the time of uploading the dissertation for examination so as to enable the Faculty (by means of an amended Examiner Declaration Form) to place the examiners under an obligation of confidentiality and to make clear to examiners that, should they wish to discuss the dissertation for purposes of examination, the Faculty must be informed beforehand so that the Faculty can place such persons under an obligation of confidentiality as well.
